Reconomy Social Value Programme

The Reconomy Social Value Programme (RSVP) is our invitation to you, to join us on our journey to give back to communities both locally and nationwide.

Through increased social value, we can bring about change to the environmental sector, address the industry's skills gap, and help our customers meet their objectives. Plus, it's the RIGHT THING TO DO.

Bridging gaps for young people leaving care

Through our partnership with the National House Project, we are providing jobs, internships and work experience to young people leaving care.

Could they find a career within your business or supply chain?

Breaking barriers for hard-to-reach groups

In partnership with RMF, we have created Reconomy FreshStart to provide training and employment support to vulnerable groups including ex-military and ex-offenders.

Can you help us provide a new start for those needing a chance?

Getting involved

- Identify your skills gaps and let us train people to those requirements
- Promote your job opportunities on the Reconomy FreshStart website
- Offer work experience and mock interview opportunities for care leavers
- Identify 'difficult to recycle' waste streams that could be processed and recycled in prisons – we will do the rest.

Benefiting your business

- Socially inclusive recruitment opportunities
- Access extensively trained individuals looking for a chance
- Help to close the skills gap
- Reduce the risk of modern slavery
- Add to the social value generated by your business
- Measurement and reporting via The Social Value Portal.
